

Green Bay Conservation Partners Listserv Guidelines

The Green Bay Conservation Partners (GBCP) email listserv is provided as a service for sharing information and networking among members of the conservation community in northeastern Wisconsin. As of summer 2022, over 400 people subscribe to the listserv, which receives regular content submitted by members. There is no cost to participate; all people who request membership or participate in GBCP events are included on the listserv unless they choose to opt out.

The following guidelines apply to listserv usage:

- Any GBCP member is encouraged to email content to the listserv in accordance with these guidelines by sending a message to: gbconservationpartners@googlegroups.com.
- The GBCP listserv is intended for sharing conservation information, job postings, events, webinars, presentations, workshops, funding opportunities, volunteer or community events, and other opportunities with the conservation community in a professional manner.
- Participation in the GBCP listserv is a privilege that will be revoked if the listserv is used for sharing solicitations, inappropriate content, or communication between members that is adversarial in nature. The Steering Committee reserves the right to remove any content or member from the listserv who engages in unacceptable behavior.
- GBCP is an information sharing and networking group and does not endorse particular causes, content, or events shared through the email listserv.
